

Large corporations can have complex structures with extensive off-site communications requirements.

Consulting, design and delivery of enterprise communications requires experience, expertise and outstanding support.

Evotec has developed the internal infrastructure and capabilities that enable us to meet the requirements of our enterprise customers.

We have more than 25 years experience providing enterprise with future-proof solutions and have developed an intimate understanding of the particular needs of enterprise and government.

Our experienced and well-trained pre-sales staff specialise in designing business-critical solutions.

We have designed a range of Design, Installation and Business Support procedures and portfolio of services which provide large corporations with reassurance that our assistance and support is available to the geographical and response level that their business demands.

For an expert solution to your enterprise communications contact us on 1300 133 996.

Siemens OpenScape Voice Case Study - Wakefield Council

{youtube}XECsNXoi7nM|660|370|{/youtube}